With a current membership of around 30 singers, Glasgow Chamber Choir is one of Scotland's finest amateur choirs. Its repertoire spans the Renaissance to the present day. The choir performs regularly in Glasgow and central Scotland, and has toured to France, Holland and Sweden. It broadcasts frequently on BBC Radio, has sung with the BBC Scottish Symphony Orchestra, and features regularly in Raymond Gubbay's Christmas Festival in the Glasgow Royal Concert Hall. Outstanding young baritone Laurens Macklon is soloist in the Stanford and Vaughan Williams songs
